

Concrete Closure

Slaves

We fell apart
And you're too afraid to say it
Yeah, you made your mark
But your fingerprints are fading
Now we're fighting the clock
Living under a rock
Why say we're something we're not?

Don't wanna lay the blame
We're circling the drain
There's nothing to explain
Quit standing in the way

You say you're looking for some concrete closure
But you're the one who keeps the door wide open
To emotions underneath cemented here with me
Can't keep my head afloat, holding your heart of stone

You say you're looking for some concrete closure
You say you're looking for some concrete closure

We're going numb
We could drag this out forever
Till we're skeletons
But we still won't be together
Should I stop the withdraw
And answer your call
Or just throw my phone at the wall?

There's nothing to explain
Quit standing in the way

You say you're looking for some concrete closure
But you're the one who keeps the door wide open
To emotions underneath cemented here with me
Can't keep my head afloat, holding your heart of stone

You say you're looking for some concrete closure
You say you're looking for some concrete closure

This happens every time
You say you're ready
But you never draw the line
Your heart is heavy
And it's weighing on my mind
The earth is shaking
You don't move at all
I'm bracing for the fall

You say you're looking for some concrete closure
But you're the one who keeps the door wide open
To emotions underneath cemented here with me
Can't keep my head afloat, holding your heart of stone

You're looking for some closure

You say you're looking for some concrete closure

But you're the one who keeps the door wide open
To emotions underneath cemented here with me
Can't keep my head afloat, holding your heart of stone
