Why am I second to the boots I wear?

Why am I second to my coat and hair?

Why am I second to the car I got?

My watch, and my jeans, and my polo top?

Why am I second to the holiday I book?

The color of my skin when I get there drunk?

Why am I second to the bread I buy?

The coffee beans roasted at a heat I like?

Why am I second to the guilt in me?

Why am I second to its big genie?

Why am I second to the mess out there?

Of a landscape starved of a real care

In a landscape gunnin' for obedience

In a landscape gunnin' for obedience
I'm in no state
Just a state
