Counting Miles

Sleep On It

Hiding out like you'll never find us
Trading this for more than silence
These lines will carry us home
These lines will carry us

By July in the summer
I will melt away my own fear
In the sun for another
Twelve months I'll hold the warmth here

Cause the world
Seems too big if you never grow
Cause the world
Seems too big if you never grow at all

Hiding out like you'll never find us
Trading this for more than silence
These lines will carry us home
These lines will carry us home

Felt a change, we were younger
Saw something out the front door
Call me out, pull me under
I can't seem to find you anymore

Cause the world
Seems too big if you never grow
Cause the world
Seems too big if you never grow at all

Hiding out like you'll never find us
Trading this for more than silence
These lines will carry us home
These lines will carry us home
Like an anchor my doubt I'm keeping
I'll stop my heart from sinking
Too deep out here in the unknown
Cause this is all we know

I feel tired, I can't sleep a wink
I'm counting miles instead of sheep
So we could be anything
I feel tired, I can't sleep a wink
I'm counting miles instead of sheep
This is how I want you to remember me

Hiding out like you'll never find us
Trading this for more than silence
These lines will carry us home
These lines will carry us home
Like an anchor my doubt I'm keeping
But I'll stop my heart from sinking
Too deep out here in the unknown
Cause this is all we know
Yeah this is all we know
