

Disconnected

Sleep On It

I feel so disconnected
From everybody but myself
I feel so disconnected
Can you remember the way that it felt?

I've had enough
I've had enough of the weight
That's been dragging me down and clouding up my brain
I have enough
I have enough time to waste
And leave it all behind

So take what you want from me
Alone I've waited months for the summer's rain
I've been giving the best of me
So cut me down and take what you want
Take what you want from me

So take me back to the days
Where we'd scream out names
Where we'd fill our lungs
With unimportant things
I've had enough
I've had enough of the nights
And all the things you say
That lead to loveless days
What you say leads to loveless days

So take what you want from me
Alone I've waited months for the summer's rain
I've been giving the best of me
So cut me down and take what you want
Take what you want from me

I feel so disconnected
From everybody but myself
I feel so disconnected
From everybody but myself

So take what you want from me
Alone I've waited months for the summer's rain
I've been giving the best of me
So cut me down and take what you want
Take what you want from me

So take what you want from me
Alone I've waited months for the summer's rain
I've been giving the best of me
So cut me down and take what you want
Take what you want from me
Take what you want, take what you want from me
