

Dwell

Sleep On It

The things I can't control eat me alive
So let's give it up tonight
All of a sudden, I painfully miss
Every girl that I've ever kissed

We have too much left to say (too much left to say)
I see you in fields of sunflowers
Months pass but I can't take the hours
That I've spent here alone
Well I'm spent alone

I only see you in my dreams
So just let me go back to sleep
I only see you in my dreams
So just let me go back to sleep

Two years and I will still leave you alone
You need sun and space to grow
I'll grow to love all the things that I hate
Dwell on life and death and God and space

I see you in fields of sunflowers
Months pass but I can't take the hours
That I've spent here alone
Well I'm spent alone

I only see you in my dreams
So just let me go back to sleep
I only see you in my dreams
So just let me go back to sleep

I'm dwelling on the past
These bones are made of glass
We have too much left to say (so please stay)
I'm dwelling on the past
These bones are made of glass
We have too much left to say (so please stay)

I'm dwelling on the past
These bones are made of glass
We have too much left to say (so please stay)
I'm dwelling on the past
These bones are made of glass
We have too much left to say (so please stay, stay, stay)
