Lost & Found

Sleep On It

I'm losing track of what I've lost again
My friends say that they're proud
But I've seen what it cost them
You're waiting for a break in the bends of my head
A shallow reply to a heart on the mend
I'm trying my best to show that I can shine through
All of the darkness I seem to keep falling into

Whoa, sing it all back to me
I've been crawling my way
Towards the things that I need
Would you spin me around to see
That I've always been enough
For the people I loved endlessly

Remembering the things I have found
Across cities and states
With my feet on the ground
You're trying your best to see too
That there's hope to be found
And that all you can do is to

Lean on the ones who have loved through and through
And that home is the place that your heart pulls you back to

Whoa, sing it all back to me
I've been crawling my way
Towards the things that I need
Would you spin me around to see
That I've always been enough
For the people I loved endlessly

I think I've got everything that I'll ever need
I'll hide away misery and what's left of me
Not afraid of change, just all the things I can't keep (Things I can't keep)

Whoa, sing it all back to me
I've been crawling my way
Towards the things that I need
Would you spin me around to see
That I've always been enough
For the people I loved endlessly
