

Playing back the moments in my mind
I wonder why I feel it still
And if you ever will
Looking back on all this wasted time
I know we'll never get it back
And I'm sick of knowing that
And for all the things I thought I knew
The only thing I know that's true
Is I'm still not over you

I'm still caught up in the afterglow of us
And it's something that I need to know I can trust
Because I tried to leave you long ago
But now I'm broken and lost without you here
Would you come back and save me again
Without you here
Would you come back and save me again

I told you I'd be better off alone
But your eyes were saying something else
You made me doubt myself
And now I know I've never been so wrong
Like you left with half my heart somehow
I think I need you now
And for all the things I thought I knew
The only thing I know that's true
Is I'm still not over you

I'm still caught up in the afterglow of us
And it's something that I need to know I can trust
Because I tried to leave you long ago
But now I'm broken and lost without you here
Would you come back and save me again
Without you here
Would you come back and save me again

If you turn and walk away
Leave me here to stay with a life completely torn
I can't make it through this storm without you
Can you help me turn back time?
To the days when you were mine
Nothing left in me can leave it all behind

I'm still caught up in the afterglow of us
And it's something that I need to know I can trust
Because I tried to leave you long ago
But now I'm broken and lost without you here
Won't you come back and save me again
Without you here
Won't you come back and save me again