

Deep End

Slow Runner

Jumped the fence at the hotel pool last weekend
Never thought we would go as far as to sneak in Don't let me slip runnin' on concrete
Bring a towel for the coward with wet feet
Don't let me slip, don't let me slip
Into the deep end

Dark ocean currents are dragging us straight down
Holding hands while the light on the surface fades out
Don't let me slip over the railing
Eyes wide and arms are flailing
Don't let me slip, don't let me slip

Into the deep end

Jumped the fence so that I could swim in your wet arms
Dive down where your secrets are kept at a dead calm
Don't let me slip into that darkness
I never wanted anything but this
Don't let me slip, don't let me slip
Into the deep end
Into the deep end
