

Cabin Out In Nowhere

Smith & Thell

She said that the city had got the best of her
That people walk so fast, their shoes must burn
She said that the billboards even seem to brainwash the birds
'Cause she saw one eating KFC down by the third

She just wanted time to look up in the sky
Feel the rain fall in her face when heaven cries
But her friends, they start to worry
And wonder if she's sad
But she never thought loneliness was bad

Oh, when the ravens call her
Waiting her to come home (hey)
Oh, when the ravens call her
Waiting her to come home

But like a cabin out in nowhere
She's more of a loner, she's more of a loner
And it's hard to get to know her
'Cause she's more of a loner, she's more of a loner

She said it's a pity how the pressure's made us cold
Now we ain't got time if it can't be sold
And she dreamt of something bigger
Bigger than this world
And bought a ticket out of town but no return

Oh, when the ravens call her
Waiting her to come home (hey)
Oh, when the ravens call her
Waiting her to come home
Oh...

But like a cabin out in nowhere
She's more of a loner, she's more of a loner
And it's hard to get to know her
'Cause she's more of a loner, she's more of a loner

Oh...

But like a cabin out in nowhere
She's more of a loner, she's more of a loner
And it's hard to get to know her
'Cause she's more of a loner, she's more of a loner

Oh...
