

Reaching Out To You

Snow Patrol

God I wish that you could see me
See my soul and my desire
Yeah I wish that you could hear me
Through the sound of all these fires
If it feels like I could hate you
'Cause the silence can't be hacked
Know I'm screaming out forever
Please come back, come back, come back

All of those nights before this
They're not like nights ahead
It's like there's space between us
Of things that won't need said
Words like, "God I miss you"
For I'm still reaching out to you
Through these deranged horizons
The things we always knew

What the Hell are we still doing
In the shadows of the night?
Let the light and all the grace you have
Just obliterate me right
Know the last time that I saw you
Is not the last page of the book
Yeah maybe I can hear the thunder
But all I need is just one look

All of those nights before this
They're not like nights ahead
Inside there's space between us
Of things that won't need said
Words like, "God I miss you"
For I'm still reaching out to you
Through these deranged horizons
The things we always knew

Afraid to fall without you, so I'll wait
Sweetest of my sins, the world create
Holding onto love and hope you do
I see it in your eyes, the memories
Love me like no one in history
Holding onto love and hope you do

All of those nights before this
They're not like nights ahead
Inside there's space between us
Of things that won't need said
Words like, "God I miss you"
For I'm still reaching out to you
Through these deranged horizons
The things we always knew

Through these deranged horizons
I'm still reaching out to you
