Sody

Lie, lie, you look in my eyes
Wastin' my time for the last time
So tired of wonderin' what I did wrong
Bye-bye, the man that I knew
Wish you would take a walk in my shoes
Maybe then he'd feel what it's like to be sorry

Did you wait for the day I'd break up with you?
I was fadin' away by puttin' up with you

So I twist your words the way I like
I forgive you 'cause it suits me
Truth gets clearer over time
Ain't it typical?
I guess workin' on yourself
Means you're sleepin' 'round with strangers
Always knew that's how you felt
So predictable
You're so predictable

Cry, cry, so I'll sympathise
Swear on my life, it works every time
Thank God I can deal with it now I'm older
Well, I hope you have fun, go be a child
Head in the sand like you've always done
But don't call me up when this hits you like a truck

Did you wait for the day I'd break up with you?
I was fadin' away by puttin' up with you

So I twist your words the way I like
I forgive you 'cause it suits me
Truth gets clearer over time
Ain't it typical?
I guess workin' on yourself
Means you're sleepin' 'round with strangers
Always knew that's how you felt
So predictable
You're so predictable

You're so predictable
You're so predictable

So I twist your words the way I like
I forgive you 'cause it suits me
Truth gets clearer over time
Ain't it typical?
I guess workin' on yourself
Means you're sleepin' 'round with strangers
Always knew that's how you felt
You're so predictable
You're so predictable
You're so predictable
