

Deceiver

Soen

Love, light
Have abandoned our side
Leaving us dull without will to thrive

Lives pass
Uneventfully by
Anything challenging set aside

Stand by
Let the tension arrive
Grateful receive what deceit provides

This vice
Is a sinful ally
Fading to black every glimpse of light

When the heart is young
And the will is strong
You expect yourself to conquer
But the winds of time
Will disperse the signs that you left
To find your trail

In the waters of sin
I will drown my awareness of you
You have always been there
Covering the sun
Aching in my chest

Someday
I will do as you say
Cracking my armour to break away

All blame
I assign to myself
Carrying the guilt of a doom we share

When the heart is young
And the will is strong
You expect yourself to conquer
But the winds of time
Will disperse the signs that you left
To find your trail

In the waters of sin
I will drown my awareness of you
You have always been there
Covering the sun
Aching in my chest

You're my shadow within
And I'll give what I harvest to you
In the river of shame
Certain we immerse
Preying on the blessed

In the waters of sin

I will drown my awareness of you
You have always been there
Covering the sun
Aching in my chest