

A Thousand Slivers

Sofia Karlberg

Laying on the floor right now
Empty bottles and my heart is bleeding dry
It's not that I am wasted
It's all the time we wasted

I've run out of tears to cry
Frozen to my cheeks, you've made me cold as ice
No I don't wanna face it
Can't bear to see your face yet

And I'm losing all my faith
If our love was holy then I lose it with myself
Maybe you were hoping I could be somebody else
Wish you kept me whole...

But you ain't got a heart
You ain't got a heart
Is that why you stole the only one I got
You ain't got a heart
You ain't got a heart
Is that why you've broken mine apart

You can't feel it
You can't see it
I'm in pieces
Give me peace it's
Not a secret that
I'm broken in a thousand slivers

If I loved me
Like I loved you
I'd have something
I could turn to
Something better than
A broken me, a thousand slivers

Making up our own truths, right?
D'you feel better now you've come and shattered mine?
I pull myself together
So you can't see the damage

Biting through my teeth I smile
Underneath the surface there's a sinking lie
Cause what we used to worship
Has turned into a warship

And I'm losing all my faith
If our love was holy then I lose it with myself
Maybe you were hoping I could be somebody else
Wish you kept me whole...

You can't feel it
You can't see it
I'm in pieces
Give me peace it's
Not a secret that
I'm broken in a thousand slivers

If I loved me
Like I loved you
I'd have something
I could turn to
Something better than
A broken me, a thousand slivers

You ain't got a heart
Is that why you stole the only one I got
You ain't got a heart
You ain't got a heart
Is that why you've broken mine apart

You can't feel it
You can't see it
I'm in pieces
Give me peace it's
Not a secret that
I'm broken in a thousand slivers

If I loved me
Like I loved you
I'd have something
I could turn to
Something better than
A broken me, a thousand slivers