

Everything to Me

Soja

I wish I could tell you to turn around and come back home
But you would laugh at me, and point to stars and say there's nothing wrong
That I don't understand - it's not my fault, it's just my point of vi ew
My vision's blurry now, but I can't wait till I see it too...

The universe, the beauty in the difference in all the love we found..

.
All those problems that just chase us all around, around, around...
It all disappears, and peace becomes that truth that's in us all...
And what you're running from... is way up here, and we're friends now

I wanna be just like you
In my own peculiar way
Half my life trying to fight you
And half my life trying to make you stay
Half my life despite you
Rest of my life to hit "replay"
And everything you said to me
Is everything I want to be

You're everything to me
You're everything I want to be
You're everything to me

I wish I could call you and write these words with someone else
It used to be unreal to look across the table at myself
And I'm at a loss for words when losing you will not leave me alone
I'm at a disadvantage, I always called you home

The universe, the beauty in the difference in all the love we found..

.
All those problems that just chase us all around, around...
It all disappears, and peace becomes that truth that's in us all...
And what you're running from... is way up here, and we're friends now

I wanna be just like you
In my own peculiar way
Half my life trying to fight you
And half my life trying to make you stay
Half my life despite you
Rest of my life to hit "replay"
And everything you said to me
Is everything I want to be

You're everything to me
You're everything I want to be
You're everything to me