

Time Flies

Sol Invictus

Time flies and life passes Already I seem to hear the last trumpet singing Oh, come out of the grave You've scattered ashes and bones
Oh, rise again, you souls

Today we are born
and tomorrow we die
Time flies; life passes
Today we appear
and tomorrow we're gone
Time flies; life passes
Today we are born
and tomorrow we die
Time flies; life passes
Today we appear
and tomorrow we're gone
Time flies; life passes

Oh, rise and tell us, truly
If we should have served
This world or the king in heaven
To open our eyes to the truth That life is but a breath of wind that passes in a moment

This mortal life has wings to fly so fast and passes at such speed
The wind is thunderbolts

The day is swiftly kidnapped and likewise, the night Winter and summer fade
?? to eternity
Time which will not endure devours us and measures our span

All life is given from heaven
And then is whisked away
