

At Least We'll Forget

Solar Fake

All your attempts to ease some pain
Too many pills, a bit more cocaine
But in the end it was all in vain
You just added more addictions

And you collapsed on too many floors
And died a death at bathroom doors
It just got worse than ever before
You're far beyond your former limits now

But time can never heal
All the hurt and harm you've caused
But I'm fine for now
And so glad you never asked

You're not my fault, at least we'll forget
You want destruction, so kill yourself instead
You're not my fault, at least we'll forget
You're my dysfunction, get out of my head

And all your phrases sound the same
You crave their love, you need some fame
There's always someone else to blame
You're desperate for attention

And things repeat and nothing's changed
And every fortune prearranged
You're almost covered
And rather strange to me

It's not unfair to see
How you turned into someone else
And I'm fine for now
And I'm glad you never asked

You're not my fault, at least we'll forget
You want destruction, so kill yourself instead
You're not my fault, at least we'll forget
You're my dysfunction, get out of my head

If you could see what I can see
If you could feel the pain

You're not my fault, at least we'll forget
You want destruction, so kill yourself instead
You're not my fault, at least we'll forget
You're my dysfunction, get out of my head

Kill yourself instead
Get out of my head
You're not my fault, at least we'll forget
You're my dysfunction, get out of my head
