

Closure

Sonic Syndicate

Hey you did you know
This was coming the first time
It's like God threw us both in the same room
But then pulled the rug beneath my feet
All alone and left me there to bleed
It's like, like God stole
The air out of this room

You stole my heart
And you beat it black
But I can't forget
Until I bring you back

I need a little bit of closure now
Something to get ghosts out of my head
'Cause we're living in lonely world
Where no one stops to say are you ok
Two different hearts one soul
This world will eat you whole
I just wanna stop and say are you ok

If I knew this would end would I still have Gave in and worshipped everything about you
How am I to continue with my life
Knowing that I never said goodbye
It's like, like God took you away from me too soon

You stole my heart
And you beat it black
But I can't forget
Until I bring you back

I need a little bit of closure now
Something to get ghosts out of my head
'Cause we're living in lonely world
Where no one stops to say are you ok
Two different hearts one soul
This world will eat you whole
I just wanna stop and say are you ok

Don't wanna open my eyes
'Cause I, I know that you'll be gone again
But I can't stay here, next to you
With you right by my side

I need a little bit of closure now
Something to get ghosts out my head
'Cause we're living in lonely world
Where no one stops to say are you ok
Two different hearts one soul
This world will eat you whole
I just wanna stop and say are you ok
