

Dreaming

SOPHIA

We closed our eyes and I began dreaming
But you weren't used to the stops and starts and the silent screaming
You held me close and said you could sense the torment inside me

You even touched my cheek to see if I was still breathing
But I was only dreaming
I was only dreaming
I was only dreaming