

Free Myself

Sophie B. Hawkins

Nobody knows me
And yet you've touched an undiscovered yearning
My heart is a mystery
Yet of the way you're quickly learning

I want to free myself with you
Let my soul fly
I can't lift these feelings
Too big for me to carry
Why does it matter what we're born
Aren't we supposed to make our own decisions
Who we love and who
We want to marry

I love your laugh and
I love the way you say "I got it"
You're like a hot bath
I find the windows of your mind hypnotic

I want to free myself with you
Let my soul fly
I can't lift these feelings
Too big for me to carry
Why does it matter what we're born
Aren't we supposed to become mind, soul and body
Who we love

Even in my blindness
I feel you getting through to me
The ways you utilize
Tenderness and kindness
To wipe the scales from my eyes

I want to be myself with you
Let my soul fly
I can't lift these feelings
Too big for me to carry
Why does it matter what we're born
Aren't we supposed to become mind, soul and body
Who we love and who
We want to marry

I want to free myself with you
Let my soul fly
I can't lift these feelings
Too big for me to carry
Why does it matter what we're born
Aren't we supposed to become mind, soul and body
Who we love and who
We want to marry

I want to be myself with you
