

There were nights in July
When everything went fine
But I still drove home
Trying not to cry
(Trying not to cry)
And there were nights in June
I almost called you after two
But I didn't, 'cause I knew
That she'd be with you
(She'd be with you)

Throw the jacket on so casual
Let's talk about how you left it all
When you let me watch you fall in love
You can't pretend that it's not your fault

But there's something 'bout the way you're lookin' now
(Something 'bout the way you're lookin' now)
Telling me that I should let it go somehow
(Telling me that I should let it go somehow)
You asked if it's been on my mind all summer
And if I said no, then I'd be lying
I looked for you in every single crowd

In every single crowd, ooh
In every single crowd, ooh

Don't tell me it hurt you when I didn't reply
'Cause letting you back in has got me hurt every time
They're playing our song, you say you think it's a sign
But I spent summer trying to tell myself I was fine

But there's something 'bout the way you're lookin' now
(Something 'bout the way you're lookin' now)
Telling me that I should let it go somehow
(Telling me that I should let it go somehow)
You asked if it's been on my mind all summer
And if I said no, then I'd be lying
I looked for you in every single crowd

In every single crowd, ooh (Oh)
In every single crowd, ooh (Every single crowd)
