

Boy boy you can't not need him
He's the ceiling
He pulled your hair he made you
He's the one who dared to
Fend the flames and then run

Boy boy we say he's working
He can't be staying
We lie our heads hoping
You will not be broken
He's digging a hole
The hole you will live in forever

Your father said that he was gonna call
He says he loves you loves you most of all
His shoes are always there behind the door that never opens

Boy boy you tired of waiting
You try to hate him
When he's there you quiet you look but I can silence
He is the man you'll become if you cannot forgive him

Your father said that he was gonna call
He says he loves you loves you most of all
His shoes are always there behind the door that never opens

Haven't you haven't you haven't you been good
Haven't you haven't you been good
Haven't you haven't you haven't you been enough
Haven't you haven't you been good

Your father said that he was gonna call
He says he loves you loves you most of all
His shoes are always there behind the door that never opens
