

A Silent Farewell

Soulfallen

It has all become so clear, so clear to me and in the soft embrace of resolution I now pace This trail I have set to be my last

This is a departure, long awaited, at last it dawns for me A farewell finally at reach and each step leads me closer to oblivion

Between the ever still grey horizons palled by their blatant world Remnants of this 'life' I deny For nothing remains for me in this world bled dry

Beneath these frozen stars
I found my salvation
For the light in this world never showed me what I was looking for...

The first rays of the rising Moon they greet me with such warmth And the Sun did never again tread upon here...