

Falling Apart

Spacey Jane

Someone said, "Don't hold your breath"
To save a spot for what comes next
It's hard enough to be alone
And I'm addicted to my phone

You stole the safety of my home
Right from underneath my nose
It's hard enough to pitch and roll
When no one knows I'm on the boat

She said, "Darling, what did I say?
You're falling apart
Like you've never been loved before
It's a common flaw"
And I don't wanna hang up if this is the last goodbye
'Cause you're not sleeping, and I'm not tired
How did so much change in one night?

I've got a story you would like
It's one where I'm forced to sleep outside
It was pretty cold, I was twelve years old
Or something like that

And on the next morning, I was pretty tired
All the neighbours who saw me all went inside
What could they have done for the favourite son?
It was my fight

She said, "Darling, what did I say?
You're falling apart
Like you've never been loved before
It's a common flaw"
And I don't wanna hang up if this is the last goodbye
'Cause you're not sleeping, and I'm not tired
How did so much change in one night?

I keep on calling and calling and calling and calling
And nobody answers
And I'm falling and falling and falling and falling
And nobody catches

She said, "Darling, what did I say?
You're falling apart
Like you've never been loved before
It's a common flaw"
And I don't wanna hang up if this is the last goodbye
'Cause you're not sleeping, and I'm not tired
How did so much change in one night?
