

How to Kill Houseplants

Spacey Jane

Call it what you want, call it what you like
Just be honest before switching off the light
What a pretty fight, please put down the knife
We can call it, and I can leave tonight
But you said

Water me, darling, love is a garden
It hasn't rained, and it's starting to show
Water me, darling, love is a garden
It hasn't rained, and it's starting to snow
Rereading our messages, I'm sorry I was cold
Pull myself away from you 'cause that's just what I know
Water me, darling, love is a garden
It hasn't rained, I don't want you to go

Put it on ice, so I can sleep tonight
Know I need you, right?
If that means anything to you

I just called to say
Throwing this away would be such a waste
I'm on my way

Water me, darling, love is a garden
It hasn't rained, and it's starting to show
Water me, darling, love is a garden
It hasn't rained, now it's starting to snow
Rereading our messages, I'm sorry I was cold
Pull myself away from you 'cause that's just what I know
Water me, darling, love is a garden
It hasn't rained, I don't want you to go

Rereading our messages over again
Pull myself away from you over again
Picking through the pieces of you I have left
Crying on the corner of somebody's bed
Call my dad and tell him it's not going well
Momma, do you love me? I'm going to Hell
Eating at the memory of something I said
Why'd you take it that way? It's not what I meant
