

Somebody's Home

Spock's Beard

At the gate, but missed the gun
I can't start, but I'm not done
Fortune never smiled at me
It left me on my own

Someone cracked the hour glass
Shattered time and scattered past
Set in stone, you can't un-cast
The die once thrown

And I'm in here with the blinds all drawn
I can hear you but I can't respond
Though the lights are on, just don't give up
'Cause somebody's home

Your eyes betray your sympathy
But your eyes can't see inside of me
Maybe there's nothing to see
I guess we'll never know

And I'm in here with the blinds all drawn
I can hear you but I can't respond
Though the lights are on, just don't give up
'Cause somebody's home

All the things I never said
All still here inside my head
All the plans you had for me
All that will never be

Oh, but don't give up on me
I see more than you think I see
Can anyone hear me

And I'm in here with the blinds all drawn
I can hear you but I can't respond
Though the lights are on, just don't give up
'Cause somebody's home
