

Hold On

Spoken

Sometimes the world, gets in the way
And other times is by words I tear away
It's like I forget the true of my world

The only world
They could never be another
There is no other, that knows me better than you
They could never be another
There is no other, my heart belongs to you

(Hold on)

Hold on just a little bit longer

And we will see the light of a new day again
I keep you all on me, that was to me

The sun will rise and we can start over again

Hold on just a little bit longer
And we will see the light of a new day again

I keep you all on me, I give you everything
The sun will rise and we can start over again

So forget the way, it was before
And all the times that I never your world my world
You are the one that I

(Hold on)

Hold on just a little bit longer
And we will see the light of a new day again
I keep you all on me, that was to me
The sun will rise and we can start over again
Hold on just a little bit longer
And we will see the light of a new day again
I keep you all on me, I give you everything
The sun will rise and we can start over again
So hold on to me, and I will be the
Everywhere it's side by side
We will run into the lights
So hold on to me, and I will be the
Everywhere it's side by side
We will run into the lights

(Hold on)

Hold on just a little bit longer
And we will see the light of a new day again
I keep you all on me, that was to me
The sun will rise and we can start over again
Hold on just a little bit longer
And we will see the light of a new day again
I keep you all on me, I give you everything
The sun will rise and we can start over again
