

Let The War Begin

Spoken

I feel so far away
Alone again
I put myself in this place
Alone again
I'm begging you to let me know
Let me know

I've forgotten how to believe in anything
That doesn't start with the fear
Living inside of me
I gave away all the years that were given to me
So let the war begin
The war begin

Fall down to the ground in front of me
The hope that once belonged to me
Is falling all around me now
So let the war begin
For so long I had given everything
The hope that once belonged to me
Is falling all around me now
So let the war begin

So far away
Far away from me
So far away
I was so far away
So lost again
You lifted me from the place
Alive again

I've forgotten how to believe in anything
That doesn't start with the fear
Living inside of me
I gave away all the years that were given to me
So let the war begin
The war begin

Fall down to the ground in front of me
The hope that once belonged to me
Is falling all around me now
So let the war begin
For so long I had given everything
The hope that once belonged to me
Is falling all around me now
So let the war begin

You were always waiting there for me
Holding every broken part of me
You were always waiting there for me
You were always waiting there for me
Holding every broken part of me
You were always waiting there for me
Waiting here for me
You're here with me
You are the one that healed
The brokenness in me

You're here for me
You're here with me
You are the one that healed
The brokenness in me

Fall down to the ground in front of me
The hope that once belonged to me
Is falling all around me now
So let the war begin
For so long I had given everything
The hope that once belonged to me
Is falling all around me now
So let the war begin
So let the war begin
So let the war begin