

Open Door

Squirrel Flower

I've been wandering downtown, but I'm feeling so tired
Just couldn't kick it, couldn't keep it to myself, though I tried
Earlier today, I set off to sea and I lost myself entirely

You had a feeling I'd opened up too many doors
I had a feeling I was free to open yours
The east is calling my name, I said I'd get back there
But my roots are far too deep, too deep for me to move, I fear

You said I didn't look around enough and I laughed
As when I look around, I get dizzy and fall in deep
No, I haven't really got a good look yet
But I know I'm not one to easily forget

I had a dream that I'd opened up too many doors
Then I walk in there each time to open yours
The east is calling my name, I gotta get back there
And my roots are far too deep, too deep for me to move, I fear