

You Should Know Better

St. Lucia

You take me down, down in the waves
I guess it's not much to ask of a man's soul
But you know
It's cold

Before we awake, I'll show you the ropes
But you know that I'm dying just to see how you end this all
Coz you know
You know

You should know better
You should know better than that

There's no escape
Well that's what you heard
While the rest of us plant the seeds and bake the bread
But somebody's gotta do it

We laid in fields of red
With the rest of the herd
Now the whole world's waiting just to see how you end this all
But you know
You should know

You should know better
You should know better than that

Baby believe me

You should know better
You should know better than that
