A                  C#mi              A             B
Can't you see I'm sick of this. Chances are your oblivious
        A             B                    A to how I feel sitting on your throne and I'm sure that I'm C#mi            A          C#mi not alone, not alone, not alone. Tell me

A                                          B
Please, who the f..k did you want me to be.
                                  Asmi
Was it something that I could'nt see.
                                C#mi
Never knew this would be so political.
    A                                        B
And please, I'm still wearing this miserable skin,
                                  Asmi
and it's starting to tear from within.
         C#mi
But it's obvious that does'nt bother you so please

A                           C#mi
I did'nt think that you'de sell me out.
     A                   B
Now I'm sure what you're all about.
     A              C#mi
You might feel in control of things.
     A                  B
But you're not holding all the strings,
     A                 B
all the strings, all the strings. Tell me

A                                        B
Please, who the f..k do you want me to be.
                                  Asmi
Was it something that I could'nt see.
                                C#mi
Never knew this would be so political.
    A                                        B
And please, I'm still wearing this miserable skin,
                                  Asmi
and it's starting to tear from within.
                                C#mi
But it's obvious that does'nt matter to you

A                          C#mi  A                       C#mi
I've swallowed all your answers. I've swallowed all my pride.
A                           C#mi        A              C#mi
You've used up all your chances. Can't keep this all inside.
B
Tell me

A                                        B
Please, who the f..k do you want me to be.
                                  Asmi
Was it something that I could'nt see.
                                C#mi
Never knew this would be so political.

    A                                          B
And please, I'm still wearing this miserable skin.
                                    Asmi
And it's starting to tear from within.
                                  C#mi
But it's obvious that does'nt bother you, so

A                                          B
Please, don't keep telling me that it's ok.
                                   Asmi
I don't buy all the shit that you say.
                                 C#mi
And quite honestly; I'm f...ing sick of it.
   A                                        B
So please, if I cut of this nose from my face,
                                  Asmi
then I would'nt feel so out of place.
                                   C#mi
But that still would'nt be quite enough for you.
   A
So please
