

Something Like Me

Staind

Shards of broken pieces
Shattered on the floor
Its not enough to bleed

Tears and angry voices
Cracks around the door
No apologies

And every time you say you love me
I still have to stop and catch my breath
How can somebody love something like me
If you could only say your sorry
There is nothing in this world I can't forget
Waiting here for you to set me free

Toys and colored pencils
Scattered on the floor
Underneath my feet

Crying over nothing
Always wanting more
Never go to sleep

But every time you say you love me
I just have to stop and catch my breath
How can somebody love something like me
And every time I feel I'm falling
You'll be there to save me from myself
Little angel watching over me

Our taxis in the driveway
Our bags are at the door
And it still kills me to leave

But every time you say you love me
I just have to stop and catch my breath
How can somebody love something like me
And every time I feel I'm falling
You're the one's who saved me from myself
You give me something to believe

And with you here
These cracks and tears
Fade away
