Make And Break Harbour

Stan Rogers

How still lies the bay, in the light western airs Which blow from the crimson horizon Once more we tack home, with a dry empty hold Saving gas with the breezes so fair She's a kindly cape islander, old but still sound But so lost in the long liner's shadow Make and Break and make do, but the fish are so few That she won't be replaced should she founder

Now its so hard to not think of before the big war When the cod went so cheap, but so plenty Foreign trawlers go by now with long seeking eyes Taking all where we seldom take any And the young folk don't stay with the fisherman's ways Long ago they all moved to the cities And the ones left behind old and tired and blind Won't work for a pound, for a penny.

In Make and Break Harbour the boats are so few Too many are pulled up and rotten.

Most houses stand empty, old nets hung to dry Are blown away lost and forgotten

Now I can see the big draggers have stirred up the bay Leaving lobster traps smashed on the bottom

Can they think it don't pay to respect the old ways

That make and break men have not forgotten

For we still keep our time to the turn of the tide

In this boat that I built with my father

Still lifts to the sky, the "one lunger" and I

Still talk like old friends on the water
