

Enough

Starsailor

I should be home by now
Two many nights spent apart to defend
I should be home by now
But I'm counting my thoughts round the bend
But until then...

Send me a message on a postcard
Something that can hold me up
I spend my days thinking too hard
Pouring over every drop

I should be home by now
Counting my thoughts 'til they stop
I should be home by now
But I'm feeling that I'm not enough
Enough, enough

I should be home by now
But I'm placed in a temporary hold
I should be home by now
I should be back in the place where I'm whole

Send me a message on a postcard
Something that can hold me up
I spend my days thinking too hard
Pouring over every drop

I should be home by now but I'm falling apart
Counting my tears as they drop
I should be home by now, I should be back in your arms
But I'm feeling that I'm not enough

I feel like everything under the sun
Is breaking apart as I climb every rung
I feel my wisdom is coming undone
But I'm feeling that I'm not enough enough
Enough, enough, enough, enough, enough