

Dreamcatcher

State Faults

I am a dreamcatcher
Chewing on stars with my baby teeth
Standing on scraped knees, believer
Believing, believing in me I am gone
A head in the clouds kind of life
Afraid of the floor
A thousand closed doors and a fast fading light

"I think I can, I think I can"

So I'll climb
Everything wilts
Everything wilts in the changing of times
The gardens we plant in our lives
And we reach for the sky
I can't sleep, in the wake of these dreams
In the wake of these dreams I am terrified
Catching my breath I'm alive

Feeling the first time I am worth it
The fistful of summer I throw in the amber
Echoing back an answer in perfect time
I'll follow the same stars and the same signs a million times
But it all fades away cause nothing can stay

I am a dreamcatcher
I am a dreamcatcher
I am a dreamcatcher
I am a dreamcatcher
