

Prism #1

Stateless

Woke up with a start, your voice in my head last night
Now I can't remember a single word
Images come back flashing like a broken light
Everything has gotten a little blurred

Snapped another thread, burned another bridge last night
How come I can act like such a fool?
I'm chasing it around, feels like an addiction
Guess I'll disregard it, make it disappear

Everything we said is messing with my head
I'm hanging by a thread and it's waning

You're just a little scared of being lonely
And I am, I am too
You're just a little scared of being lonely
And I am, I am too

Images come back flashing like a broken light
And everything has gotten a little blurred
It's chasing me around, it feels like an affliction
Guess I'll have to face it, make it disappear

Everything we said is messing with my head
I'm hanging by a thread and it's waning

You're just a little scared of being lonely
And I am, I am too
You're just a little scared of being lonely
And I am, I am too

You're just a little scared now, you're just a little scared now
You're just a little scared of being lonely
You're just a little scared of being lonely
And I am, I am too

You're just a little scared now, you're just a little scared now
You're just a little scared of being lonely
You're just a little scared of being lonely
And I am, I am too