So I have seen enough
Another love crushed and my heart spent
To myself, it's obvious
Our time was cheap and so short-lived

Take, take all you need with no fixed cost
Gifted a second chance
Traded gold for ignorance

Chamber pressed between my eyes
To wake up, wake up without you
Be my final reason why

So I have seen enough
To drown in colors and subtle drugs

Are they scared enough?
Saved by anything
Youngest thrown to the cold
When she's tret like porcelain

Chase away the daylight
Take all you need, all you need from me
Take, take all you need, and I'll force you off
Hang myself just in this moment

The exchange from blade to knife
Will make you feel alright
Under carpet, dashing overtone
Lusting red turned to monochrome

Fatal four words to never say
I love you but we are not the same

Iron-oxide kicking in (I think you've seen enough)
Joints start to seize up
Iron-oxide kicking in (I think you've seen enough)
It's kicking in, it's kicking in

I think you've seen enough
And I'm asking myself; why do they care?

Chase away the daylight

Take all you need, all you need from me
Take, take all you need, and I'll force you off
Hang myself just in this moment

Like rust, we decay then feel weak
No heart for regret
No mouth to speak
Like rust, we decay then become weak
