

An Extra Song For You

Stephen Jerzak

I thought you said you'd call by noon I've been waiting on you and it's all I can do 'cause you're always doing something with somebody else I think the last time that you penciled me in was the night before I saw you dance you're like a flower in the wind you're about as graceful as my friend her hair is almost like the morning breeze on a sunshiny day and it talks with a way without the words that i normally say when I'm stumbling ooh ooh oh

Last night I tried to picture your beautiful face but I only saw you frowning, darling and I'll find a way to put a smile on you yes I will and I'll wrap myself around your tree on the side of your house and I'll climb, I'll climb it til I could reach your balcony and I'll jump across the sky cause I think I can fly and I'm flying, I'm flying away

So tell me
what you've been hiding cause all I wanna know is how i can sleep without me hearing you sing in the shower at night that's probably one of the things that you do that keeps my mind off the pictures of you

When you laugh
and your cheeks turn rosy
When you smile
and you scrunch your nose
When you breathe
and the sunshine is shining on you

And I never knew a thing about you but I gave it a shot and I never knew not to say that it's a beautiful day when you're around and now I think that I have found the one and it's you and the last thing on my mind is you deciding that you're going a different direction the connection we have was to heaven and back but the things that I lack, like personality, when you're sitting next to me

So tell me
what you've been hiding
cause all I wanna know is how i can sleep without me
hearing you sing in the shower at night
that's probably one of the things that you do that keeps my mind off the pictures of you

When you laugh
and your cheeks turn rosy
When you smile
and you scrunch your nose
When you breathe

and the sunshine is shining on you When your hair's blowing in the wind When your eyes started glistening
When you talk
I start listening to you to you, to you