Armageddon

Stephen Simmonds

The troubles of my mind
The blind leading the blind
The hatred, so afraid
The taking part, the lack of heart, the trust betrayed
The talk of equal rights
The corporate genocide
The misdirected blame
The stripes, the stars, this world of ours, we're all the same
Armageddon
Just look what we've become
The body and mind
So say goodbye, when God decides what will be done
Armageddon
We all return to one
The final genocide
But don't you cry, we have to die, the war's begun
From father to his son
The teachings of a gun
The violence in control
The ancient law of big eat small and on we go
The war that can't be won
The end that has begun
We've chosen what we chose
The rise, the fall, God save us all, it's getting close
Armageddon
Just look what we've become
The body and mind

So say goodbye, when God decides what will be done
Armageddon
We all return to one
The final genocide
But don't you cry, we have to die, the war's begun
The sleep with open eyes
In denial, the collective state of mind
But we're all waken up this time
Highest high, king of kings, all the angels will sing
Glory, glory
Armageddon
Just look what we've become
The body and mind
So say goodbye, when God decides what will be done
Armageddon
We all return to one
The final genocide
Armageddon
Just look what we've become
The body and mind
So say goodbye, when God decides what will be done
Armageddon
We all return to one
The final genocide
But don't you cry, we have to die, the war's begun
