

Every Dog Has Its Day

Stereophonics

So you feel like life's a losing game?
You're climbing your mountains every day
Can't feel that sunshine on your face?
Give it time, give it hope, give it love, give it grace

Yeah, you think that all you try you'll fail
You keep comparing yourself to someone great
It's a waste of time, who cares anyway
You've gotta run, gotta climb, only you're in your way
Hey-yeah

So every dog has its day
If the stars line up that way
And every night has its day
If the sun comes up again

So you lost all hope, look for someone to blame
Yeah, you've got your crutch and that's okay
Take it real slow, take it day by day
You can be what you see, let the clouds blow away
Hey-yeah

So every dog has its day
If the stars line up that way
And every night has its day
If the sun comes up again

You're alright, you're alright, there's time
You're alright, you're alright, there's time
You're alright, you're alright, time is on your side

Hey-yeah, every dog has its day
If the stars line up that way
And every night has its day
If the sun comes up again

(Every dog has its day
If the stars line up that way
And every night has its day
If the sun comes up again)
