

Never Going Down

Stereophonics

I feel alive just to be awake
While the world sleeps before it's dawn
The light is blue and it's up to you
For you to hear the birds singing their songs

Then aeroplanes and the underground trains
And the silence gets killed by the cars
Flowers need water and the people need coffee
And the sun shines out the stars

Never going down
Never going down, down, down, down, down
Never going down, down, down, down

I get deaf 'cause the voices are loud
I gotta dump the garbage fill in my head
They pierce in my own head and don't make no sense
And there's so much paper to shred

It's easy to see how people can be
And get lost in the blink of an eye
The time ticks around and the world barrels on
And now your mirror face is seventy-five

Never going down
Never going down, down, down, down, down
Never going down, down, down, down, down
Never going down, down, down, down, down
Never going down, down, down, down

You're freer on the inside just to step out on the outside
Down to the spinning rock in the sky
Let's paint a drag with a big, fat brush
Round the twenty-four-seven news desk

I wanna run around, out back so fast
Yeah, my heart beats a hole in my chest
I wanna swim or take a dive from a tree
I wanna sit around a fire caressed

Never going down
Never going down, down, down, down, down
Never going down, down, down, down, down
Never going down, down, down, down, down
Never going down, down, down, down

Yeah, yeah, yeah
Yeah, yeah, yeah
Yeah, yeah, yeah
Yeah, yeah

The people who love you
And make you who you are
Yeah, the people who love you
And make you who you are

Never going down

Never going down, down, down, down, down
Never going down, down, down, down, down
Never going down, down, down, down, down
Never going down

Down, never going down, down
Down, never going down
Never going down, down
Never going down, down, down, down, yeah
