

Fall Back Down

Stone Broken

You left your friends behind, but they are better without you
Like social suicide your fears are starting to come true
Can't see you must be blind forgetting everything you do
I think you've lost your mind and were not going to save you
They're saying you're not the same, they can see you falling again
And then you started screaming my name

You're saying you are fine, but they are seeing right through you
You tell another lie forgetting everything you knew
Everyone knows your kind, and they are starting to doubt you
The things they start to hide they know you'll take if you want to
There saying you're not the same, they can see you falling again
And then you started screaming my name, oh

Your telling me its over, watch you getting sober
You think its funny when you hit the ground
You're telling me its over crying on my shoulder
Whose gonna catch you when I'm not around
You're telling me its alright, where you sleeping tonight
It doesn't matter 'cause you can't be found
You're telling me its over, now you're getting older
And you never wanna fall back down

You're telling me its over, watch you getting sober
You think its funny when you hit the ground
You're telling me its over crying on my shoulder
Whose gonna catch you when I'm not around
You're telling me its alright, where you sleeping tonight
It doesn't matter 'cause you can't be found
You're telling me its over, now you're getting older
And you never wanna fall back down
And you never wanna fall back down
