Places where we fall to bits

If she were there I'd hold her down

I'll push her under while she drowns and

Couldn't breathe and call for air

She doesn't care for my despair

In my Mersey paradise

As I stare an oil wheel comes

Sailing by and I feel like

Growing pins and falling in

With the bricks, the bikes, the rusty tin I

Swim along without a care

Bet your life I'll meet a Pike who'll

Wolf me down for tea tonight
