Breakaway

Stratovarius

A silent sigh
A prayer from within
That reaches no one

A frail memory
A teardrop on your skin
Once shed for someone

A desperate cry
That hardly can be heard
Still echoes inside

A lost reverie
You once thought you could reach
Has now come undone

Slowly, gently
You can walk on water
Across the stream, to the other side
Day by day
You're finding your desire
And the soul that you hide

Don't drown in your sorrow
When the walls come down
You're not alone

Face the darkness, find the light
Seize the moment, hold on tight
Raise your head up, breakaway
Know that you don't have to stay
Breakaway, breakaway today

They'll say you are weak
They'll say you are not free
But they don't know you

It's not who you are
It's not what you've become
But they cannot see

Slowly, gently
You can walk on water
Across the stream, to the other side
Day by day
You're finding your desire
And the soul that you hide

Face the darkness, find the light
Seize the moment, hold on tight
Raise your head up, breakaway
Know that you don't have to stay
Breakaway, breakaway today

Face the darkness, find the light
Seize the moment, hold on tight

Know that you don't have to stay
Breakaway, you can breakaway today
