Pilgrims

Stroke 9

Well, there's pilgrims out here in the cold, and uh
Every day, we don't know where to go
She gonna vouch for him if he said so
She gonna vouch for him if he said so

I don't like it when the things are dumbed down
The world's in bloom so we all just need to grow
All this time, you've been calling my name
It feels different but it's really the same

And it's a home, I love you, counting on you to be
The one who's always trying to make me believe

How many times have you told yourself that you're gonna change something?
How many times have you told yourself that you wanna change something?
I'm learning more every day about all the things that I can bring
I'm learning more every day about all the things that I can bring

We was children out here all alone, and uh
We never knew what we didn't know
We're gonna go there if they say so
We're gonna go there if they say so
All this time they've been calling our name
It feels different but it's really the same, and it's uh
How my love, yeah, counting on you to be
The one they're always trying to make me believe

Something (something)
Gonna change your mind (gonna change your mind)
Let's go

How many times have you told yourself that you're gonna change something?
How many times have you told yourself that you wanna change something?
I'm learning more every day about all the things that I can bring
I'm learning more every day about all the things that I can bring

Someday everybody's gonna know your name
Like everything else, it means nothing
Compared to all your wildest dreams
There's nothing that's what it seems
