

Divided By Design

Stryper

In a world divided
Where lines are drawn
And hearts are torn asunder
Like the break of dawn

A tapestry of differences
Woven tight
But in our separation
We always lose the light

Though our fears
Pull us apart
We all share
A beating heart

We live in a world
Divided by design
Let's break down the walls
And realign

Find common ground
With hate redefined
Let's let love resound
And bridge the divide

The colors and the creeds
Like a shattered mirror
Reflecting differences
Becoming clearer

Within the broken fractures
There's beauty to unfold in every story
That's waiting to be told

Fear will always, fuel the fire
But grace will set, us free
And inspire

We live in a world
Divided by design
Let's break down the walls
And realign

Find common ground
With hate redefined
Let's let love resound
And bridge the divide

We live in a world
Divided by design
Let's break down the walls
And realign

Find common ground
With hate redefined
Let's let love resound
And bridge the divide

We live in a world
Divided by design
Let's break down the walls
And realign

Find common ground
With hate redefined
Let's let love resound
Bridge the divide