Suffocation

This life cannot be altered, beginning to the end
It has been determined before you were even conceived
A bond that has been forged by heredity
One that can't be broken, descendants entangled, we are

Secreting separate strains, substance interlaced
Creating this humanity
Shape and molded in our likeness
Infecting the pure bloodline
When we implanted the seed
Bearing our mark
Pouring semen Into the indigenous Beings that they were before descendants

This life cannot be altered, beginning to the end
It has been determined before you were even conceived
A bond that has been forged by heredity
One that can't be broken, descendants entangled, we are Forever, we're as one

We should not intervene, evolution with no blessings
Granting abilities of the sacred divinity
Embellished perception and the knowledge that we attained
It is fate, let it be
Ordained with devilry

Decisions have been decreed, contriving divine heresy
Composed with lies and imprecations
Secluding them from the truth
That they have become ancestral slaves, now for eternity
