

You Complete Me

Summer Camp

He was raised by a quiet man, she was born in a bar fight
He spoke French and learned to dance, she couldn't sleep without a light

At 18 she moved to the beach, at 25 he buried his dad
Life got small as he got older, she never thought about the past

C'mere, come a little bit closer C'mere

He was waiting for a friend, she was working in the bar
At closing up he was still alone, she drove him home in her car

As they pulled up she said
As they pulled up she said

C'mere, come a little bit closer
C'mere, come a little bit closer

You could complete me

Five years later they had a kid, a tiny house and a sofa bed
She'd fall asleep watching tv, his arm around her, he'd kiss her head

And as he did he'd say
And as he did he'd say

Come here, come a little bit closer
C'mere, come a little bit closer

You complete me
You
You complete me
You
