

Shooting Star

Sunflower Bean

Is it okay to feel again?
Is it okay to let you in?
Oh, you know it feels so good together
You know it feels so good together
So many things have happened, babe
That I can barely start to explain
Do you really want a piece of all this pain?
Do you really want a piece of all this pain?

Do you really want a piece of all this pain?

There you are, like I always knew you
Shooting star, I call your name
And there you are, I stand before you
I'm broken up, I'm still the same

I never wanted anything but this
I'll make my life into an album, have a couple hits
I'm always on the edge of the precipice
I'm falling right into your abyss
So all I ever did was run
And all I needed was a band where I could belong
I'm on the upside looking down
I'm from the other side of town

Do you really want a piece of all this pain?
Do you really want a piece of all this pain?

There you are, like I always knew you
Shooting star, I call your name
And there you are, I stand before you
I'm broken up, I'm still the same

The past is never-ending, and it haunts me all the time
The future's just a promise, and I'll take yours if you want mine

There you are, like I always knew you
Shooting star, I call your name
And there you are, I stand before you
I'm broken up, I'm still the same
