

Soul Destroyer

Sunset Sons

They'll build you up
And then break down the walls
Kill all the passion you got
And fight for a living
A priest hearing the choir, thank God
I tried to tell myself
This journey won't stop
Never second-guess yourself
Believe it or not
We stand on the shoulder of giants
And no we don't fall
Building a kingdom to conquer
Is all that I want
A gracious man once said
Life's just a game
Is it the rich or poor to play?
[?] to blame

When every turn is taken
You love to break the mold
The fear of what we're facing
We start to live in a bitter world
And when you lose touch of yourself
And live to the hands of the gods
We write our own destiny
Guess the writing's on the wall

They'll build you up
Fight for your future
Teach everybody the rules
Never be hard on yourself
Sometimes we lose
Take pleasure in the things you love
The heart breaks out in blues
And [?]
Your dreams come true

When every turn is taken
You love to break the mold
The fear of what we're facing
We start to live in a bitter world
And when you lose touch of yourself
And live to the hands of the gods
We write our own destiny
Guess the writing's on the wall

I won't show the scars I've been battling through
A long dark road for miles is the journey I choose
To take control of life and I know you been through the same
It's always been on my mind, always been on my, always been on my mind

They'll build you up
And then break down the walls
Kill all the passion you got
But you can decide to fall
Whether or not
Around the world we go

I hope it don't stop
Never second-guess yourself
Believe it or not

When every turn is taken (fight for your future)
You love to break the mold (teach everybody the rules)
The fear of what we're facing (never take a no for an answer)
We start to live in a bitter world (don't be scared [?])
And when you lose touch of yourself (be the king of your castle)
And live to the hands of the gods (if you don't wanna lose)
We write our own destiny (stand your ground)
Guess the writing's on the wall (shoot for the stars and shout)
