

Sorry.

Sunsleep

You'd pack your bags in the middle of the fight
Cause you know I couldn't stand to see you leave that night
I'd call your bluff every time you said goodbye
Yeah you know it was never enough till I caught you in your lies

But I'm so sorry for every time I've done you wrong
And if I could cut out my heart would you take it as you run

A second chance
I guess we couldn't get this right
All those words were meant for nothing
I would never leave your side
And through the years
Though we made our own mistakes
I would never let myself run
From the consequence of pain

And I'm so sorry for every time I've done you wrong
And if I could cut out my heart would you take it as you run

Down on the floor you begged me not to walk away
But then you left me here this time
As you lie right to my face
I don't think you're sorry no

These empty walls you left me here
Inside a home we built to share
You closed the door I cry an ocean

I don't think you're sorry
Don't tell me you're sorry

So sorry for the love you threw away
I'd rather take you at your worst
You couldn't find the strength to say
I'm sorry for being the hypocrite this way
These simple words too hard to say
I'm sorry